Neck Pillow

- When in use, put the U-shaped pillow around the neck and stick it above the shoulders, so that when you lean against the seat, your head will have a strong support, soft and comfortable, and there is no risk of cervical strain. When you sleep, your head will not swing left and right, just as comfortable as sleeping in bed.

PLUSH

If you are a stomach sleeper, you need the softest to create a flat sleeping surface to minimise any arching of the back whilst also ensuring that the head and neck are not turned unnaturally to either side.

MEDIUM

If you sleep on your back, you want a pillow that is firm enough to support your neck but soft enough to cradle and form to your head perfectly

FIRM

If you are a side sleeper, you want to find a high pillow so that you can keep as much pressure off of your shoulder as possible
