The cookware of the VICTORIA SIGNATURE SERIES is made of a cast iron whose molecular structure has been adapted to its special use. Three layers of flaxseed oil are applied to create a non-stick surface. “The mix of materials with bronze and brass inserts give the cookware an elegant look. The recess on the ergonomic handle prevents heat transfer for better and easier handling, while additional handles facilitate lifting. A side spout makes it possible to pour liquids without dripping,” said the jury, highlighting the product’s special features.
