OUR STORY

Partners Gal and Sharon Benjamin began EcoSouLife after becoming inspired by their eldest son's passion for the environment and recycling, that resonated around ecofriendly solutions. Initially Gal and Sharon focused on biodegradable textile and apparels, but once they gauged the market and the competition, they diverged their focus into biodegradable disposable and reusable camping. cutlery and crockery.

Research and Development, testing and quality assurance was conducted, and the process took 4 years to mature. They embarked in 2011 targeting the camping and outdoor sectors, that had the highest level of environmental awareness. However, Gal and Sharon noticed that the real market for them was in tableware and homewares. By 2015 the company made the shift and had most of its business coming from the retail sector. In 2017 they also introduced their first food services product line. By 2018 the company secured distributors in each of the states selling their products, to increase brand awareness nationally.
