KEEP YOURSELF TOTE-ALLY ORGANISED

Bookaroo

The clever way to carry your non-stationary stationery

Bookaroo®

BAGAROO

The light bulb moment for this came as I walked past 5 bulging tote bags leaning up against the wall of a teacher's house. Each contained paperwork for a different life 'subject'... governor's notes, school reports, household bills, house details and her pottery course notes... phew! And so Bagaroo was born. Just ONE 'tote-ally' organised bag with ONE set of sturdy handles and FIVE generously sized tabbed sections. Room for all your papery stuff in one very perfectly portable bag. A brilliant gift for teachers, students, hobbyists or people with just lots going on!

Take it with you -
keep it at home

Decorate & annotate your journal or notebook

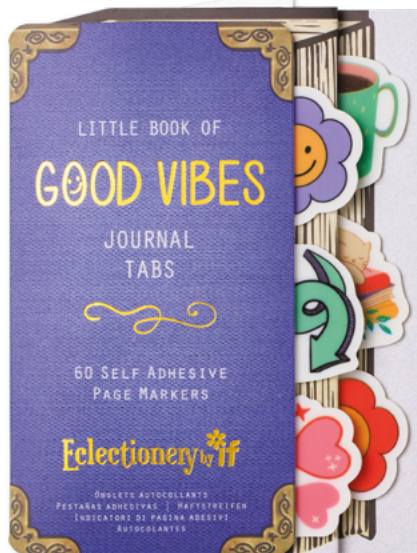

If you fancy something a bit more, well... "fancy" to annotate your books, these little sets of 60 themed & peelable pagemarkers are for you. Pick out the good bits, highlight the important pages, remember the quotes... or just jazz up and theme up your notebook or novel. Clever packaging (with a place to reference each of the six tabs) will stand on your desk too. Four current 'literary' looks to choose from too. Quirky and eclectic.

THE LITTLE Lantern

by *if

A 'Little' version of the classic style lantern - but more fun!

It's new! But looks amazingly authentic. It seemed a shame not to give this much loved little lantern shape another pocket sized lease of life. So we took every classic detail, made it smaller and popped it into some cool and bright tent shaped packaging. Bring a little outdoor festival or camping vibe to your desk.

Glows just like the real thing!

NEW PLASTIC FREE PACKAGING!

3 NEW COLOURS!

USE IN THE KITCHEN

miso chicken harusame

Using a lighter noodle and packed full of veg, this dish is based on a Japanese salad recipe but is served up hot.

erves 2

- 1 teaspoon garlic paste
- 1 teaspoon white miso paste
- 1 teaspoon tamar sauce
- 2 chicken breast fillets, cut into 1cm (1/2in) thick slices
- 30g (1oz) curly kale, destalked
- 80g (3oz) pak choy, leaves separated
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 80g (3oz) rice glass bean noodles
- 1 medium-size red onion, thinly sliced
- 50g (2oz) shiitake mushrooms, destalked and sliced
- 4 red chillies, sliced
- 2 sprigs of coriander, leaves picked
- 1 teaspoon chilli oil

for the sauce

- 2 teaspoons tamar sauce
- 2 teaspoons white miso paste
- 2 teaspoons fish sauce
- 1 tablespoon water
- 1 teaspoon chilli oil

In a bowl, whisk together the garlic paste, miso paste and tamar sauce, ensuring there are no lumps. Add the chicken slices, turning and coating them in the marinade, then set aside for a minimum of 30 minutes.

Measure all the sauce ingredients into a bowl, mix well until you have a smooth consistency, then set aside for later.

Next, prepare the veg: shred the curly kale into small pieces and cut any large pak choy leaves into two. Mix all the vegetables together, ready for stir-frying.

Place an oiled wok on a medium-high heat, add the marinated chicken and cook for about 3-5 minutes until starting to brown.

Meanwhile, cook the glass bean noodles, following the packet instructions. Once cooked, drain and set aside.

Add the prepped vegetables to the chicken and stir fry for a few minutes until caramelised. Add half of the sauce and coat all of the ingredients. Then add your noodles and toss, followed by the rest of the sauce and stir well.

Plate up into bowls and garnish with sliced chilli and coriander. For an extra v, finish with a couple of drops of chilli oil.

* Use 200g (7oz) fried tofu instead of chicken to make this dish vegan.

Book Lover's SPARE PAIR

Because Book Lovers need more reading glasses

Thrilled (although not entirely surprised) by the success of our original 'Spare Pair' (three pairs are proven to better than one now), we have created a new set with the more book-conscious in mind. Still with three pairs of the same diopter on one card but this time with three different cool frame shapes to change up your 'look' too. Keep a different pair on the sofa, bed, 'library' or anywhere you fancy a chapter or two!
