45 YEARS OF ORIGINAL DESIGN

In 1979, friends Les Mandelbaum and Paul Rowan transformed a simple window shade into a beacon of modern, accessible design and in doing so began Umbra out of Toronto, Canada. The name was fittingly derived from the Latin word for "shade" and now inspires homes in over 120 countries with offices around the globe.

Driven by innovation and a passion for creativity, our team of international designers redefines everyday items with a bold approach. In 2007, Umbra’s commitment to accessible design was further showcased by the opening of its flagship store in downtown Toronto—a center of creativity where design enthusiasts gather to connect with our visionary products. Umbra continues to evolve, proving that original design can indeed be a part of every home.

UMBRA SHADE
Paul Rowan

Umbra – Latin for “shade” – was born when Paul Rowan designed a unique paper window shade to solve a personal need for stylish, functional privacy. He shared the idea with his childhood friend Les Mandelbaum, and together they brought it to life. The design struck a chord, quickly gaining attention and reshaping the housewares industry as we know it.

MINI CAN Umbra Studio

Initially designed as a toy for children, Mini Can was later adapted for housewares with a swing-top lid that remains popular today.

1988

HUB MIRROR
Paul Rowan

Hub disrupted typical mirror aesthetics with its innovative use of rubber as a frame. After a brief initial run for company use alone it was brought back to life 20 years later to become a cult favorite.

GARBINO CAN
Karim Rashid

Inducted into the permanent collection of the Museum of Modern Art (MOMA) in NYC, the Garbino can's swerving rim, flowing curves and negative spaces make it stand out amongst an otherwise uninspiring and industrial-looking category.

OH CHAIR
Karim Rashid

Designed by Karim Rashid when he wanted to create a plastic chair that was comfortable, attractive, and durable. Recipient of the 1999 IDEA Award and included in the MoMA SF, Museum of Modern Art in San Francisco.

1998 TEARDROP CURTAIN ROD
Henry Huang

This revolutionized the way curtain rods were designed and purchased by becoming the first cash and carry rods on the market. This timeless shape has now transformed into other functional pieces around the home including the Tug paper towel holder.

1999

FLIP HOOK
David Quan

Flip's design features multiple retractable hooks and a sleek profile that mounts seamlessly to virtually any wall. Its launch helped reimagine the use of hooks as decor.

SLIP SHOE HORN
David Quan

When Les saw his aging father struggle to put on his shoes – his direction to the team was clear. Design a new solution for sliding your shoes on easily while maintaining a stylish and elegant look.

2009

PENGUIN PUMP
Luciano Lorenzatti

A new take on a traditional soap pump head. This easy to fill dispenser's unique design and memorable form inspired its playful name.

2008

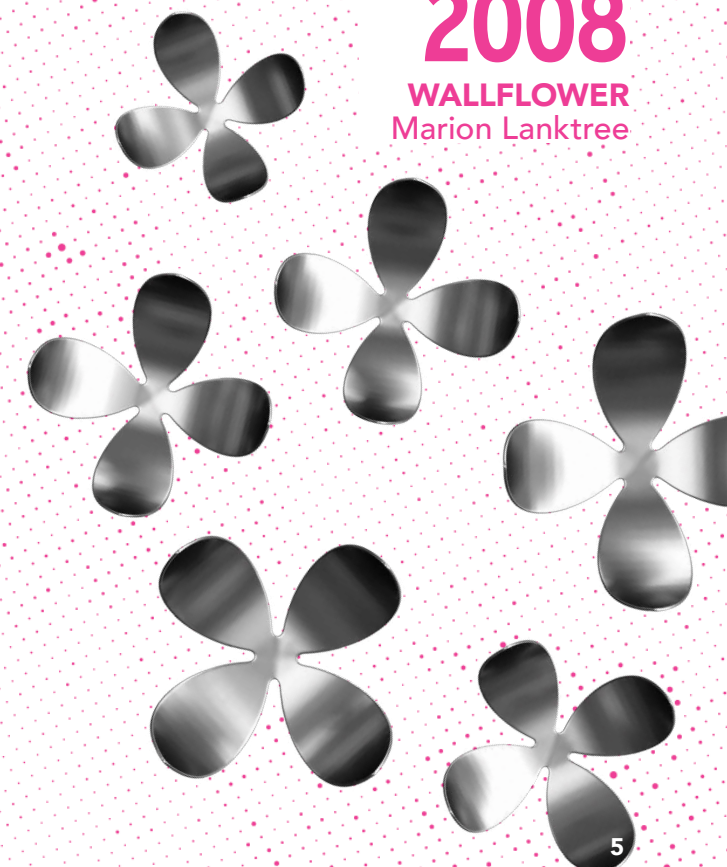

CONCEAL INVISIBLE SHELF
Miron Lior

Miron Lior, won the first annual Umbra & Pratt Design Competition. The Conceal shelf magically suspends books on a wall and royalties from its sales continue to support Miron and the Pratt Institute of learning.

2016

UDRY
David Green

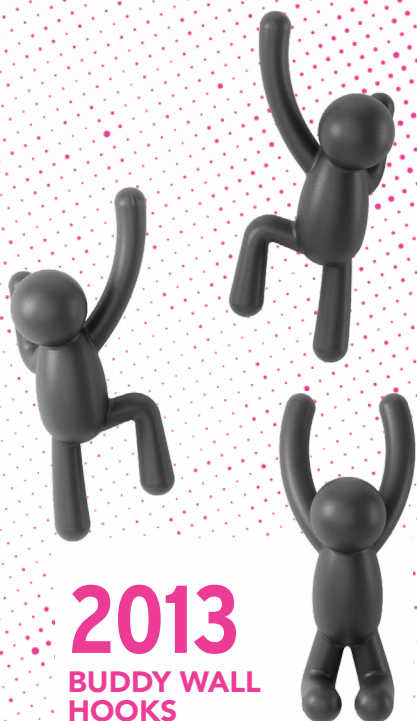

An innovative solution for drying dishes quickly and easily without taking up much visible space, combining a dish rack and a machine washable drying mat in one.

2011

LITTLE BLACK DRESS
Matt Carr

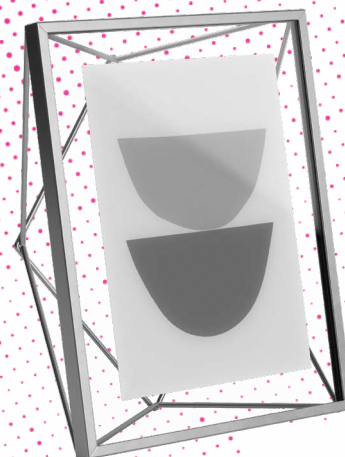

Re-inventing accessory organization, this massively popular design was found in closets around the world without taking up much visual or physical space.

2013

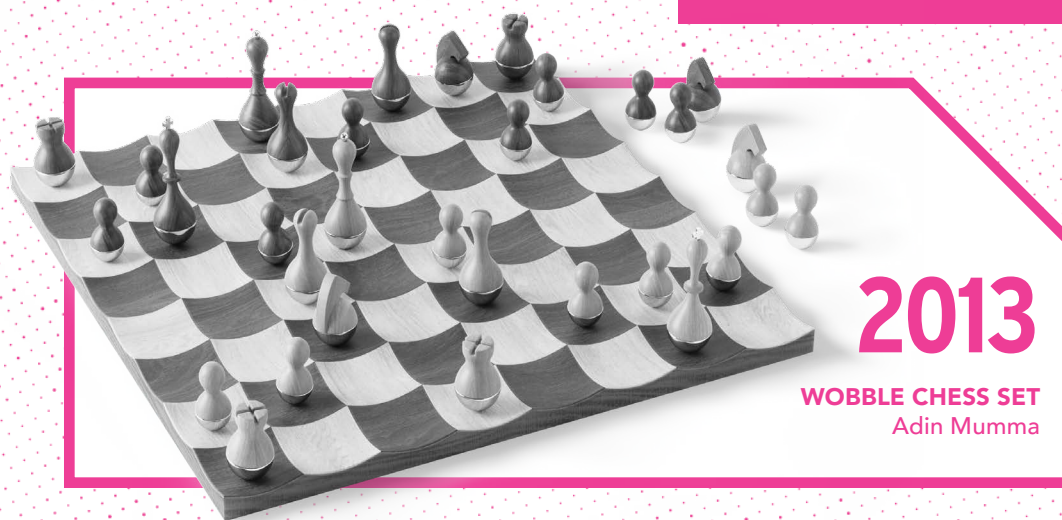

BUDDY WALL HOOKS
Alan Wisniewski

What began as a cheeky little figure quickly became a full-blown design icon. Buddy brought a burst of personality to the Umbra lineup—playful, punchy, and instantly lovable. Since then, this character has climbed, leaned, and lounged his way into homes across the globe, becoming a brand hero across multiple categories.

Eliminating the frustration and damage of hanging multiple frames, this innovative solution allows for customization to create a gallery photo display without the stress.

2020

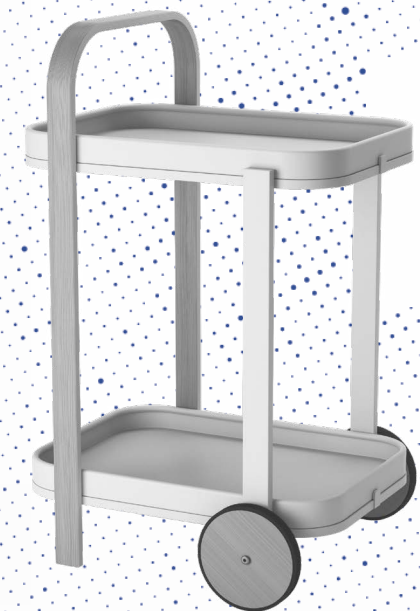

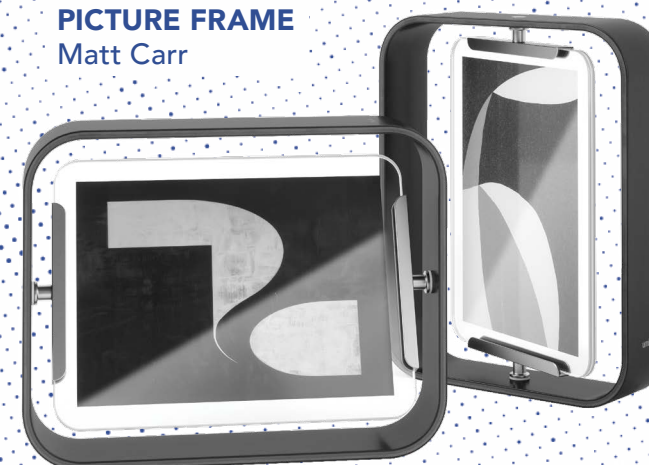

PICKET HOOK
Sung wook Park

At first glance Picket Hook looks like a piece of wall art thanks to its sculptural form and beveled pine wood dowels. The hooks flip down to open, and when not in use they flip back up, creating a seamless profile. This design is commonly featured in press and social media for its thoughtful details, elegant craftsmanship, and artful aesthetic.

MONTAGE WALL SHELF
Todd Wood

With its bold, geometric design, Montage Shelf makes a striking statement. Cleverly designed from two pieces of bent wood, it blends modern shapes with natural finishes. When installed in multiples they make a dynamic installation on any wall.
