ABOUT PAKELO

Pakelo, a company set apart by the impeccable standard and quality of its products, has been a producer of lubricating oils and grease since 1930.

Selecting the right oil was once a simple choice, but time and progress have revealed the complex science of lubrication and the multiple factors that need to be considered: the revolution of multigrade oils, increasingly better performing blends, the continuous technological innovation of engines, and environmental protection. Year after year, Pakelo has welcomed the change, interpreting it as a source of inspiration for further improvement.

A propensity for new ideas combined with hands-on experience and expertise in the production of lubricating oils and grease, make Pakelo a specialised company that invests passion and determination in the quest to demonstrate, through tangible results, that not all lubricating oils are the same.
