HETZEL
We make transmissions drive!

Our Offer:

Repair of automatic transmissions

Our expertise in the repair of automatic transmissions guarantees you the highest quality and reliability. Using forward-looking technology and in-depth specialist knowledge, we repair automatic transmissions up to the latest generations, whether conventional, continuously variable (CVT) or double clutch (DCT). You can rely on our service to extend the service life of your transmissions and to ensure optimum performance.

Repair of torque converters

Our torque converter repair department offers you the highest quality and fast availability. We make sure that your torque converter works like new. Whether replacement or repair - we have the suitable solution for you. Many torque converters are immediately available from stock, directly from our own repair department.

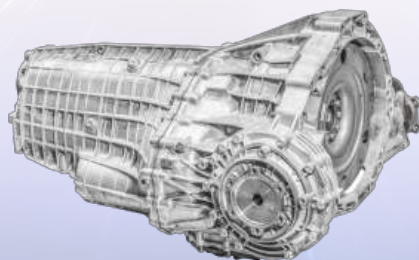

Repair of valve bodies / mechatronics

Your automatic transmission is only as good as the valve body it is fitted with. We professionally repair and carefully test almost all common valve bodies, whether old or new. With our modern test benches, we simulate realistic conditions, almost like in a vehicle, to ensure the highest quality and best performance.

Trading with transmissions

We offer you a wide selection of automatic transmissions, transfer cases and old transmissions. Whether state-of-the-art technology or proven classics - with us you will find the right transmission for your vehicle. If you have any questions, our customer service team will be happy to help you.

Trading with spare parts

If you want to repair an automatic transmission, high-quality spare parts are essential. We offer you a wide range of spare and replacement parts. We source our spare parts directly from transmission manufacturers, suppliers and vehicle manufacturers.

By using the parts in our own transmission repair department, all spare parts are subject to continuous quality testing. The decisive factors for us are the quality and durability of the parts.

Car workshops, mechanics, dealers and, above all, transmission repairers benefit from our wide range of spare parts and from the technical support we offer our customers. Regardless of whether you are overhauling or repairing a transmission, we have the required spare parts in stock for almost all vehicle types.
