

All from one supplier

Alfa Food & Poultry develop, create and achieve your customised food solutions

All responsibilities covered by one supplier

Alfa Food & Poultry is a leading consulting and engineering firm for the food industry worldwide for the last 25 years. Our long-lasting experience and continuous involvement in the industry allow us to provide conceptual design, project planning and installation on-site. We design and develop comprehensive, customised and optimised production lines for the food industry as an independent system integrator.

We take responsibility for the entire project management, including matching of interfaces and enhancement of unit operations through 3-D process stimulation. We offer personal consultation and solutions based on your technical demands. We assure the entire responsibility of making your project a success and are always at your disposal, even after delivery of the project.
