

YAKUSH

YAKUSH is a Ukrainian brand that creates dishes and decor from ecological handmade materials, mainly from Huta glass. This unique technology was invented in Ukraine in the 15th century.

We create tableware you'll want to make a family heirloom.

ABOUT

YAKUSH founded by Masha Yakush in 2017.

She works with restaurants and travels in search of gastronomic discoveries and Masha believed that the way the dish and drink served is as important as the taste itself.

We worship the "esthetic" food and drink presentation.

We work with sustainable materials. In 2020, we started working with recycled glass. And we have become an ecological Ukrainian brand.

It all starts with broken glass.

Before creating an object from blown (huta) glass, we remelt the broken glass (we take it from factories that are no longer functioning) and, thus, give a new life to the shards. A molten ball is being blown out through the tube. It is being corrected with wooden bars, tongs.

The result is taken off the tube and placed on an iron rod ("pontius") and the processing is being continued.

If necessary, a master opens the top or rolls out the lower part, pulls, bends, cuts viscous glass with the help of special tools.

After moulding the product is placed in the oven and after a day you can see the result.

New collection of glass vases in the shape of a woman's body inspired by ancient figures of Venus and Tripolian goddesses. This is an ancient Slavic symbol of femininity, motherhood, and fertility. They were depicted as figurines made of clay, ceramics, or stone, which were placed in homes and on bread fields to ensure abundance and harvest.

Each vase is unique and handcrafted with attention to detail. You can order a vase in your favorite color and add it to your collection of decor. We donate 20% of each sold vase to the GIDNA Women's Aid Fund, which helps women who have suffered violence during the war in Ukraine.
