OUR TEXTILES

LOOKBOOK 2023

Since the beginning of our business life, we have always been committed to promote this extremely soft material, the Peruvian alpaca, one of the finest natural fibers in the world. Alpaca has a long life cycle, which is one of the reasons why it is highly sustainable. We consider it our “gold of the Andes”.

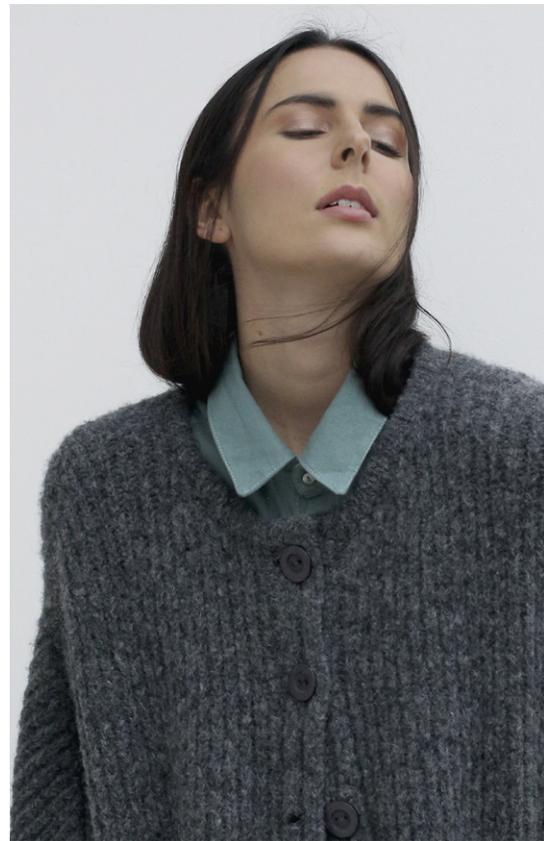

Our home textiles are made in classic designs for the contemporary lifestyle, which means they can make you company for years. They are lightweight, easy to combine and easy to clean. Alpaca is perfect for throws, blankets, pillows, curtains, upholstery, carpets, runners and duvets.

Its hypoallergenic and thermoregulating properties make of alpaca a very friendly fiber for garments that can be used by everyone. Our designs are elegant and timeless, bringing comfort, warmth and refinement.

Alpacas have been part of the Andean culture for more than 5000 years as archeological findings have proven. They live in extreme altitudes over 4000 meters and temperatures going from 30°C to minus 20°C. They gently graze local pastures with no harm for the soil and are sheared regularly as its fleece is used locally and for the industry. Peru owns around 4 million alpacas, 80% of the world population.

Proud of having one of the finest fibers in the world, we work with Andean weavers to manufacture hand woven textiles with the highest standards and under fair trade conditions. Huancavelica and Junin are the Peruvian regions where our extraordinary textiles are produced.

Our alpaca wovens are made using improved traditional looms which thanks to the technical innovations we have introduced, Peruvian weavers are able to produce perfect textiles for our clients.

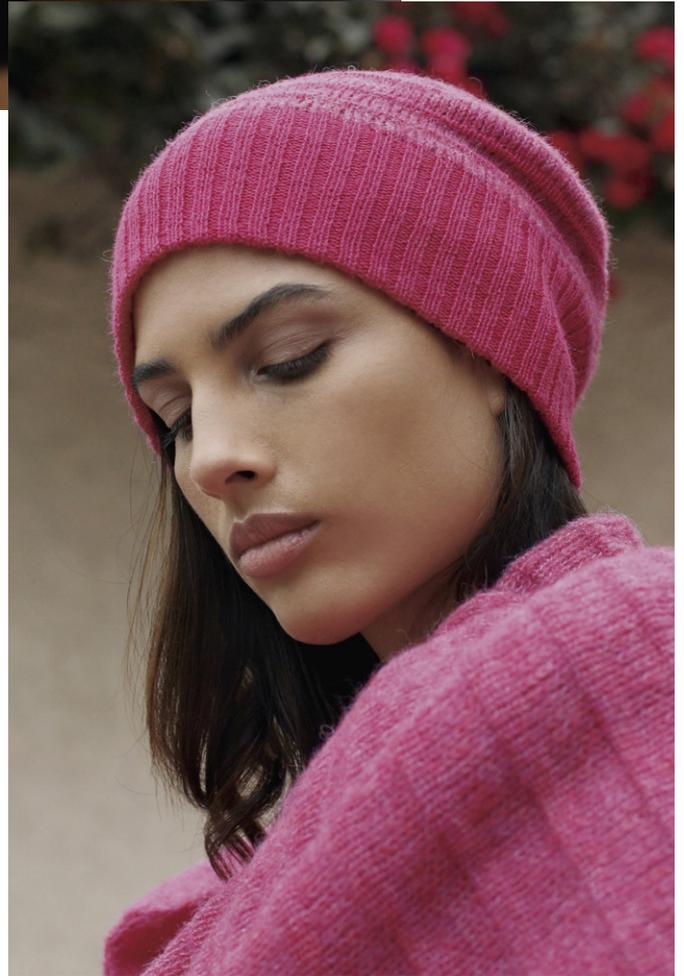

Our fashion alpaca garments are knitted in small workshops using domestic knitting machines and industrial ones. All apparel and accessories are hand finished under strict quality control practices.

In Allpa we work hard to make sure our clients are satisfied with the quality of our alpaca garments and with the social, economic and environmental sustainable goals we work with. Our spirit is to design beautiful products ethically made.

The softness of our home textiles is due to the use of nanoparticles in the washing process.

We source our alpaca yarns from local mills who provide the best quality of 100% alpaca, baby alpaca and blends, with all the certifications required by the global market.

To produce alpaca textiles is a great journey for all of us: our artisans, our collaborators and our clients. Thanks to this venture we are able to create sustained jobs for thousands of families in Peru. We invite you to join us in this journey.
