R&D DEPARTMENT

User's experience has always been the most important core point in product development and design of INTERLINK. Through the observation of life and the changes in market demand, we keenly explore the needs of users, and then after the discussion and revisions in the department to let the design have a better experience in use.

TAIPEI OFFICE

UNIVERSITIES COOPERATION

In the product design, it contains many elements and consideration, such as the technological progress, user's needs, the trend nowadays, innovative ideas, different ways of using...etc.

In addition to the professional design department, INTERLINK also gets more inspirations and ideas through the discussions of industry-university collaboration opportunities.

We can have better understanding for future needs and things that the new generation values to develop products. And the design is closer to the needs of the market.
