Production process

DIE CASTING

After the aluminum ingot is melted into liquid aluminum, the manufacturing process of producing the body with special high-temperature and high-pressure die-casting machine.

- 1. More creative design space. Including non-geometry, as well as pattern relief effects on the surface of the body.
- 2. Stronger body strength and better structural stability.
- 3. The body can achieve the ultimate "thick bottom and thin wall" better heat conduction and energy saving.
- 4. Each product with dedicated accessories.

FORGED

The manufacturing process of body in which aluminum alloy plate is forged and formed by high tonnage friction press.

- 1. The thickness of the body of different parts can be designed to achieve better use effect, such as: widening the rim or edge, etc.
- 2. Faster production speed, smooth surface of body without pores.
- 3. Compatible with all body surface treatments (Hard anodized, Plasma, Enamel, etc)
- 4. Various non-stick internal and external coatings and various accessories are applicable.

PRESSED

The manufacturing process of the body in which the aluminum alloy plate is stretched and formed by the hydraulic press.

- 1. Fast production speed, large output and simple production process.
- 2. Compatible with all body surface treatments. (Hard anodized, Plasma, Enamel, etc).
- 3. Various non-stick internal and external coatings and various accessories are applicable
- 4. Regular geometry can be produced.
