A proud Dutch brand

NeXtime embodies the outstanding characteristics of Dutch design. Our products are minimalistic, sophisticated, classy, sometimes playful, and sometimes all at the same time. Over the decades, we have cumulated strong knowledge in materials, technology and manufacturing techniques. We take our time to perfect our product development and see no limits to innovation. As a responsible company, we also work towards making our products more durable and sustainable.

Five decades of heritage

NeXtime's brand heritage dates back to 1970 when it started as a Dutch company that made hand-crafted mechanical clocks. As the company later transitioned into designing next-generation contemporary timepieces, it was named NeXtime. Our dedication to timepiece production makes the brand an industry leader recognised for its numerous trendsetting designs. We also look to bring good times to people around the world through expanding into other product categories including lighting and decorative products.

Up to this very day, NeXtime still adheres to the brand's core values of being passionate, creative, fun, caring, uncompromising on quality and committed to upholding its heritage.

A family of global partners

NeXtime stays on top of the latest trends to enable us to develop the best products for you. Our licensees, distributors and resellers, and their online and offline channels make our products available globally.

Our global partners are part of our family. We cherish what we achieve together and believe in sharing good times and respecting one another.

Under the premium NeXtime brand and value-for-money nXt brand, NeXtime's extensive collections feature the best combination of quality, style and value to fit every interior.
