Smart integration of a plant pot and saucer

A plant pot and saucer are generally two separated items up until now. By adopting the idea of the dual structure, they are now smartly combined into one. The inner pot holds a plant and soil, and the outer pot receives excess water.

Easy to carry in one hand

This easy carrying plant pot with an integrated saucer will never make you feel troublesome carrying it with you again. Thanks to dual structured and ultra-light aluminum body, feeling connected with your favorite plant is easier than ever!

Thirty-three holes to create a comfortable environment for plants.

Fresh air passes through thirty-three vents, which are located on the top inner surface, and they help not to interfere plants to breath from roots. The integral structure makes it so easy to throw out excess water and reduce a risk of roots rot. The outer pot also can be used for soaking the inner pot for a while when necessary.

MADE IN OSAKA JAPAN

From mold making to surface finish

From mold making and material processing to alumite treatment to engraving, all manufacturing processes are completed in Osaka, Japan. It is the completely new plant pot with delicate appearance like a beautiful precision equipment.
