AOCUSA, formerly known as AMALIE Oil Company, is the largest independent (family-owned), oil manufacturing/blending company in North America! AMALIE Motor Oil was one of the original “Pennsylvania Crude” oil companies in America. Established in 1903, by the Sonneborn brothers, AMALIE quickly developed a reputation for high-quality, well-engineered petroleum products. In 1953, AMALIE was the first oil company to introduce a multi-grade motor oil: Imperial 10W-30.

Today, the Barkett family owns and controls 100% of the company, which has developed into one of the biggest and most reliable oil/lube manufacturing and blending companies in the world! The Barkett brothers, who were all born and raised in Miami, Florida, went from selling fuel to manufacturing and packaging high-quality lubricants, when they started in 1977, by purchasing a small blending facility in Tampa, Florida by the name of PEPAC (Petroleum Packers), which had several oil brands. In 1996, they purchased the AMALIE brand and in 1999, they renamed the company to AMALIE Oil Company.

In the year 2006, they acquired the Wolf’s Head Motor oil brand, converting the company in a multi-brand manufacturer. The AMALIE brand name started to fly and receive global recognition when in 2014, the Barkett family acquired the naming rights to the ice hockey coliseum, previously named as Tampa Bay Times Forum. From there on after, the AMALIE Arena, is the host for the two-time (back-to-back) NHL Hockey Champions, The Tampa Bay Lightning.

The Barkett brothers have not yet stopped developing the corporate business when in 2015, they acquired Delfin Group in Charleston, South Carolina. This was an oil blending company (located on deep sea water with port loading facilities), own by a Russian business group, who established lube operations in a previous Chevron facility. This blending plant has received multiple manufacturing upgrades ever since the Barkett brothers took over. In 2018, AMALIE Oil Company acquires the largest oil blending company in the West Coast - California, LSC (Lubricating Specialties Company), which consists in three production plants and one distribution warehouse. In 2019, the company decides to rename the corporation to: AOCUSA.

With this latest acquisition in California, AOCUSA positions itself to becoming a reliable oil/lubricant manufacturing powerhouse in the global petroleum industry. Our company combines an overall total of 86.5 acres (all plants), with an on growing total (lubricant) tank storage capacity of over 38,200,000 gallons. Our overall manufacturing and storage capacity exceeds the 1.2 million square feet, and our blending capacity is above 189,000,000 gallons (over 630,000 metric tons).

Automatic production filling lines, robotic storage bins, automatic palletizers, inline (computerized) blending, are just a few highly recognized (unique) technologies we use here to prepare our products and ship to over 130 countries around the world! We also manufacture our own plastic bottles by having the most modern blow-molding machines and serve Tampa & Charleston with base oils,
