THE LIGHTNING CONNECTOR HIGH SPEED USB CABLE

The Lightning connector that iPhones, iPods and iPads have been using since 2012 is a proprietary connector created by Apple. Inside each lightning connector is a tiny authentication chip that tells your device it's Apple MFI Certified. This is important because non-certified, or knock-off, lightning cables can be very dangerous to your device. (You may have noticed a warning message on your phone when a non-MFI cable was detected.)

THE ALL IN ONE SOLUTION FOR RETAILERS

We are mindful of the retailer and the end customer when it comes to our concept for the point of sale. On one hand we keep our product packings slim and compact, since we know that the sales area is a valuable and scarce resource in a shop. We aspire to make our products self-explanatory by giving as much information as possible on our packings, in order to facilitate the purchase decision of end customers. Our POS displays and boxes ensure that the products are presented in an eye-catching and visually appealing manner.
